

Getting the facts about the Zika virus

|

Ryan Rivet rrivet@tulane.edu

View PDF

As Zika virus continues to spread north toward the United States, public concern and media attention are also on the rise. Two faculty members from the Tulane University School of Public Health and Tropical Medicine and the Tulane School of Medicine talk about the virus and the risk it poses with mosquito season right around the corner.