

First Breakthrough Health Film Festival wraps after three days of movie magic

Fri, 04/11/2025 - 16:33

|

SPHTM Communications sphcomm@tulane.edu

View PDF

Filmmakers, film fans and public health experts gathered for the Breakthrough Health Film Festival this week. (photo by Derek Bridges)

Tulane University and the Partners for Advancing Health Equity (P4HE Collaborative) held their inaugural Breakthrough Health Film Festival this week, an inspiring showcase of storytelling through film that promoted health and wellness, aimed to spark conversations, foster understanding, and inspire action toward a healthier society for all.

Celia Scott Weatherhead School of Public Health and Tropical Medicine and the Tulane Health Equity Institute helped sponsor the three-day event, held at the Tidewater Building's Diboll Gallery and Auditorium. Films screened from Sunday to Tuesday fell into specific daily themes: "Movement Makers," "The Power of Choice," and "The Power of Storytelling."

You can see some photos from the event below.

