POLICY ENGAGEMENT & IMPACT:Summary of Policy Evaluation Research:

Over the last 10+ years, my research program has sought to understand and evaluate the role of health and social policies in shaping health care service delivery, health care access, health outcomes and outcome disparities among women across the reproductive life course. My studies have examined a host of federal, state, and local/institutional policies as they impact the reproductive, mental, physical, and maternal health outcomes of women and girls in the United States. Specific policies of focus have included the Affordable Care Act, sex education, national organization recommendations for breast and cervical cancer screenings, federal and state contraceptive provision and access policies, policies affecting minors access to SRH services, and restrictive abortion laws, among others. I have published and presented my scholarship widely in this area, as described in detail in Section C (RESEARCH) of this CV. My active NIH grants extend this work to address: 1) economic security laws and maternal mental health; 2) state, local and hospital level policies supporting integrated supportive care models for care during the pregnancy and postpartum periods; 3) Medicaid policies for doula reimbursement and care delivery; 4) policy interventions for structural racism and maternal morbidity and mortality, 5) hospital policies to implement maternal safety bundles, SDOH screening, implicit bias interventions, and hospital-community care linkage programs; and 6) academic-hospital-governmental-community partnerships and engagement for policy action in maternal health equity, Below, I highlight selected resulting policy translation, action, impact and public scholarship activities.

GRANTS & CONTRACTS

Total Awarded Grant Funds (as of August, 2024, not including trainee grants): $74,827,686

- Total funding from all awards in which I served as Principal Investigator - $41,617,502
  - $32,558,968 were awarded in last 5 years
  - $33,368,924 were funded by NIH, of which $32,947,600 were extramural peer-reviewed awards
- Total funding from all awards in which I served as Co-Investigator - $33,210,184
  - $32,344,144 funded by NIH or other federal extramural peer-reviewed awards

A. ACTIVE GRANTS/CONTRACTS

NICHD R01 HD111444-01A1 (Hall, contact PI)

08/12/24 – 05/31/29

Social policies as public health interventions for maternal mental health

Columbia University

Frisvold (MPI), Daw (Co-I), Komro (Co-I), Woods-Jaeger (Co-I), Livingston (Co-I)

$3,268,936

This R01 proposal entails a quasi-experimental empirical evaluation of the effects of multiple state-level social policies, specifically free community college and 5 different economic security laws (CCDF, Paid Leave, TANF, Minimum Wage, EITC), on public health priority maternal mental health outcomes and disparities among childbearing aged women in the United States over the past two decades.

PCORI Partner-2023C1-31407 (Hall, Co-I) 04/01/2024 – 03/31/2030

Comparative Effectiveness of Three Health Equity Interventions to Improve Maternal Health

Columbia University

Woo-Baidal (MPI), Schwartz (MPI)

$21,000,000

This proposal will compare the effects of three multi-level, multi-component interventions to address social needs and health systems factors to promote maternal healthy weight throughout pregnancy and post-partum periods.

NINR 1R01NR021108 – 01 (Hall, contact PI) 9/21/2023-6/30/2028

Integrated Supportive Care Policies to Improve Maternal Health Equity: Evaluating the Multi-level Effects and Implementation of Doula Programs for Medicaid-Eligible Birthing People in New York City

Columbia University

Daw (MPI), Whitney (MPI), Dorval-Moller (MPI), Freedman (Co-I), Nathan (Co-I), Thomas (Co-I), Brown (Co-I), Reddy (OSC), Taylor (OSC), Monk (OSC), Howland (OSC), Billings (OSC), Cepin (OSC)

$3,587,634

We propose a rigorous mixed-methods evaluation of the multi-level impacts and implementation of NYC's Medicaid-relevant, policy supported doula programs - the Maternity Hospital Quality Improvement Network (MHQIN) and the Citywide Doula Initiative (CDI). In Aim 1, we will use a quasi-experimental design and unique Medicaid claims linked to social services data to evaluate outcomes and outcome disparities of the CDI on 1a) birth, mental health, cardiovascular, and SMM outcomes; 1b) prenatal and postpartum healthcare utilization; and 1c) receipt of social services, among Medicaid-eligible birthing people from 2022 to 2027. In Aim 2, we will analyze diverse perspectives on and experiences with the MHQIN program components and its implementation among birthing clients and hospital, Medicaid, and doulas/community stakeholders via in-depth individual interviews, focus group discussions, and surveys. In Aim 3, our Community Coalition Research Leadership Advisory Board will lead a co-design process to develop an evidence-based strategic plan for policy implementation to scale and sustain Medicaid-supported ISC, including doula reimbursement.

NIH 1U54HD113172-01 (Hall, MPI) (8/17/23-7/31/30)

NY Community-Hospital-Academic Maternal Health Equity Partnerships (NY-CHAMP)

Maternal Health Research Centers of Excellence

Columbia University; Weill Cornell Medicine

Reddy (MPI), Taylor (MPI), Osborne (MPI), Safford (MPI), Brown (MPI), Dorval (MPI), Rodriguez (MPI), St. Clair (MPI)

$17,031,083

The broad goal of the New York Community-Hospital-Academic Maternal Health Equity Partnerships (NY-CHAMP) is to launch a novel community-centered research, training, and engagement program that will identify and address the comorbid biologic and psychologic pathways linking adverse social determinants of health to disparities in severe maternal morbidity and mortality (SMM/MM); and with our partners, co-design scalable multi-level strategies grounded in anti-racism and empowerment to reduce SMM/MM and affect systems and policy change for maternal health equity in New York City and State. NY-CHAMP brings together Columbia University, Weill Cornell Medicine, four lead community organizations, and a broad coalition of community, hospital, academic, and government partners in a highly collaborative, paradigm-shifting model for excellence in maternal health research.

NICHD UG3/UH3HD11247-01 (Hall, MPI) 10/15/2022 – 10/14/2026

EnCoRe MoMS: Engaging Communities to Reduce Morbidity from Maternal Sepsis

Columbia University

Reddy (MPI), Friedman (MPI), Goffman (MPI), Cepin (Co-I), Taylor (Co-I), Rossetti (Co-I), Cato (Co-I)
$3,765,431

Leveraging our extensive multi-sector community partnerships and our community leadership advisory board (CoLAB), we will address three highly related specific aims: (Aim 1) Develop, implement, and evaluate a community-informed, institutional obstetric sepsis bundle; (Aim 2) Develop algorithms to optimize prediction of infection/sepsis around delivery and postpartum; and (Aim 3) Conduct a co-design process and rigorous qualitative study to explore the experiences, needs, and perceived solutions for maternal care continuity, prevention of sepsis risk, and promotion of equity in the postpartum period.

NIAAA R01AA030529 (Hall, contact PI) 9/20/2022 – 9/19/2027

Improving alcohol and substance use care access, outcomes, and equity during the reproductive years: A Type 1 Hybrid Trial in Family Planning Clinics

Columbia University

Welsh (MPI), Gotham (Co-I), Chang (Co-I), Sales (Co-I), Wei (Co-I), Janiak (Co-I) $3,889,418

We propose an explanatory, sequential, mixed methods study with a dual randomized Type 1 Hybrid Effectiveness-Implementation Trial to investigate the novel combination of evidence-based SBIRT and implementation sustainment facilitation (ISF) within a northeastern regional affiliate of a large national SRH care organization and its expansive FP clinic network.

NICHD UG1HD040485 (Hall, Collaborator) 4/1/2021-3/31/2025

Multicenter Maternal-Fetal Medicine Units Research Network

Columbia University

Reddy (PI)

$1,102,305

The major goals of this project are to improve obstetric care, pregnancy health, and outcomes for pregnant and lactating people and their babies and to provide rigorous data and biospecimen collection to share as a resource for other investigators to advance evidence-based obstetric practice.

B. COMPLETED GRANTS/CONTRACTS

Tow Faculty Leadership Award (Hall, PI) 07/01/21 – 06/30/24

Columbia University, Mailman School of Public Health

$75,000

This competitive career development and leadership program provides support for innovation and exploration for promising mid-career scholars, along with training and mentoring in leadership and development.

Mailman School of Public Health Centennial Grand Challenge Award (Hall, Co-I) 7/01/2022 – 6/30/2024

MSPH SYNERGY (Multigenerational Strategies for Promoting Health through Solutions from Interdisciplinary Engaged Research, training Younger generations)

Columbia University

Terry (MPI), Genkinger (MPI), Kehm (MPI)

$200,000

We plan to pilot test a sustainable model for research, training and community engagement focused on public health solutions for meeting the local and global chronic disease burden. The pilot household intervention in 100 NYC households addresses risk across multiple generations in neighborhoods with high chronic disease risk. The pilot will engage community partners through seed funding in the delivery and dissemination of the intervention and provide resources for students interested in chronic diseases to be part of an experiential learning multi-sectoral practicum.

Mailman School of Public Health Centennial Grand Challenge Award (Hall, Co-I) 7/01/2022 – 6/30/2024
Towards a New Science of Health: Developing an Operational Definition of Intrinsic Health

Columbia University

Belsky (MPI), Herbstman (MPI), Wei (MPI), Makaram (Co-I), Pei (Co-I), Malinsky (Co-I), Berhane (Co-I)
 $200,000

The goals of this proposal are to 1) refine our model of intrinsic health, including specification of measurement methods; 2) conduct validation testing of intrinsic health as a characteristic that promotes healthy lifespan; and 3) develop a large-scale research proposal to NIH to test how public health programs and policies can promote health.

NIH NOSI NOT-OD-21-071 Administrative Supplement (Hall, PI of Supplement)

NIMH 1R01 MH126531-01-A1 (MPIs Dumitriu, Monk, Marsh)

04/12/21 – 01/31/23

Structural and Social Determinants of Maternal Mental Health, Morbidity, and Inequities in COMBO

Columbia University

Dumitriu (MPI), Marsh (MPI), Monk (MPI), Taylor (Co-I), Freedman (Co-I), Freidman (Co-I), Rossetti (Co-I), McCormack (Co-I), Werner (Co-I), Spann (Co-I), Wei (Co-I)

$881,466

This NOSI administrative supplement will expand the scope and focus of the parent R01 project beyond mother-infant brain-behavior functioning and of Columbia University Irving Medical Center's (CUIMC's) COVID-19 Mother Baby Outcomes (COMBO) initiative via a mixed methods study of the impacts structural racism and discrimination (SRD) and COVID-19 on inequities in maternal mental health, severe morbidity, and disparities by race/ethnicity and socioeconomic status via 3 specific aims: (1) analyses of psychosocial survey and brain imaging data; (2) qualitative interviews of pregnant and postpartum women's lived experiences and perceived impact of SRD/SDOH on health care access and outcomes; and (3) difference-in-difference analyses of rich longitudinal curated EMR data.

NICHD P2CHD058486 Columbia Population Research Center (Hall, PI Seed Grant) 06/30/21 – 12/30/22

Socioenvironmental and structural Determinants affecting integration of substance use services in to obstetric settings: Implications for healthcare access, outcomes and equity for pregnant and postpartum women who use drugs

$20,000

We propose a CPRC Seed Grant pilot study to inform our forthcoming NIH R01 submission under development, which entails a novel, multi-phase, explanatory sequential, mixed methods study of SDOHs, including SRD, affecting integration of the SUD care cascade in obstetric clinics and pregnant/postpartum patients' SUD and maternal morbidity outcomes and inequities within Kaiser Permanente (KP) - a major national healthcare organization and payer network.

CPRC's mission is to increase the scientific impact, innovation, and productivity of population researchers at Columbia, increase their competitiveness for peer-reviewed external funding in population dynamics research, help junior population scientists achieve research independence, and maximize the efficiency of funding for population dynamics research. Our specific aims are to: (1) nourish a vibrant cross-campus intellectual community of population researchers at Columbia, fostering the development of junior population scientists and encouraging collaborations among population scientists and between population scientists and scientists in other disciplines; (2) advance population research in CPRC's four primary research areas (PRAs): children, youth, and families; reproductive health and HIV; immigration/migration; and urbanism; (3) continue to be a leading population center focused on research on inequalities in the health and well-being of vulnerable populations, and on public policies relevant to those populations; and (4) take advantage of Columbia's location in New York City by partnering with city policy makers and practitioners to address mutual research interests.

We propose to launch a solution-oriented, population-focused Center for Drug and Health Equity Research (CDHER) to collaboratively conduct population-based research on drug use disorders and harms, test innovative policies and interventions that can reduce health inequities and expand access to care, and translate scientific findings to policymakers, service providers, and the general public in a timely way that is accessible to directly impacted communities.

This study aims to bridge the gap on understanding of the relationship of neighborhood and social stressors with early/subclinical markers of vascular dysfunction (or premature CVD) in Black women. We will investigate the effects of several stressors in the neighborhood and social environment and inflammatory markers (leptin, CRP and adiponectin) on CVD outcomes of aortic stiffness (measured by carotid-femoral pulse wave velocity [cfPWV]) and central aortic blood pressure [cBP] in Black women of childbearing age (20-45 years).

B. DEI-RELATED RESEARCH

Summary: For two decades, my entire research program has addressed advancing health equity (with a focus specifically on maternal and reproductive health) and understanding the roles of structural and social determinants of health in shaping disparities in maternal morbidity, mortality, reproductive, and mental health outcomes. Over the last 20 years, my projects have examined the influence of structural racism, poverty, inequities in access to quality and comprehensive healthcare, toxic social stress, and other SDOH on adverse outcomes for women, girls, families, and communities, especially those from socially disadvantaged and marginalized groups, in the U.S. and Africa. Through my research mentorship, teaching, and administrative roles, I have been consistently committed to developing and supporting the pipeline of scholars from minoritized and underrepresented backgrounds in the field. My work has also emphasized community engagement and women/patient-centered approaches, community capacity building, and resource shifting for population health equity. My collective CV highlights these DEI research contributions.
