"Preparing the next generation of physician scientific, community and clinical leaders"

MESSAGE FROM THE ASSOCIATE DEAN

M.A. "Tonette" Krousel-Wood, MD, MSPH

Tulane MD/MPH and MD/PhD in public health students have been Making Waves this past year! Being lauded for their accomplishments in receiving awards at scientific meetings for their research and publications, receiving scholarships and fellowships to support their research interests, and being selected for graduation recognition for excellence in their studies and service, our combined degree students continue to impress with their dedication and resourcefulness. We are particularly pleased to highlight multiple MD/MPH students who transitioned to our MD/PhD Program in public health—this is a record number since the program's inception and supports our commitment to increasing the pipeline for the next generation of physician scientists!

Signaling our support to encourage women leaders, our office co-hosted the Southeastern Association of Advocates for Women in Science & Medicine (AAWSM) Conference, which was held at Tulane for the first time. The 6th annual conference was held in early April on the downtown Health Sciences Campus with over 100 junior and senior academicians from institutions across the southeast in attendance. Expert speakers from Tulane and beyond shared insights and strategies for success and to support women's careers in the health sciences.

I am also pleased that our TL1 Pre-doctoral Research Training Program in partnership with the University of Alabama at Birmingham (UAB) Center for Clinical and Translational Science (CCTS) has been renewed with funding from the National Institutes of Health. Over the next five years, this grant award will continue to support Tulane medical and pre-doctoral students pursuing careers in translational research focused on addressing health disparities and diseases disproportionally represented in the Deep South. To date, 9 medical students have successfully participated in this year-long research-intensive mentored training program. Two Tulane students have been accepted into the newest cohort of TL1 Scholars, and we will be accepting applications for the 2020-2021 application cycle beginning in Fall 2019.

Our Class of 2019 matched in excellent residency programs in 14 different states and 11 different specialties across the spectrum of medical and surgical disciplines. These graduates also received numerous awards for their notable scholarly contributions and community service.

We hope you enjoy this edition of the Newsletter. We have added several new sections highlighting some of the recent achievements of our MD/MPH alumni and recognizing our MD/MPH students' and recent graduates' publications in scientific journals. We welcome our alumni to contact us and share any recent updates that we can feature in future editions of our Newsletter.

Please visit our website at https://sph.tulane.edu/mdmph/home to view more information about our programs and related opportunities. Many thanks for your continued support!

Southeastern Association of Advocates for Women in Science & Medicine (AAWSM)

The Southeastern AAWSM is a collaborative organization founded to equip future leaders in academia with the knowledge and skills needed to promote the recognition and professional development of women in academic medicine and biomedical sciences.

The 6th Annual Southeastern Regional AAWSM Conference was held on April 5-6th, 2019 at Tulane University and generously sponsored by the Tulane University School of Medicine and the Louisiana Clinical & Translational Science Center (LA CaTS). Over 100 attendees from seven institutions joined the conference with a majority of the attendees being students and trainees. The conference began with a dinner at Mardi Gras World with keynote speaker, Rebekah Gee, MD, MPH, Secretary of the Louisiana Department of Health (pictured above). Marie Krousel-Wood, MD, MSPH and Maureen Lichtveld, MD, MPH opened the conference as ioint plenary speakers. Conference activities included three sets of concurrent sessions, a lunch & learn and poster viewings.

Congratulations to all of our 2019 MD/MPH award recipients!

- Linda Nix (MD/MPH 2019 Graduate) received the John J. Walsh, MD Award for an outstanding student in the MD/MPH Program, the Magnus Memorial Achievement Award for leadership in disease prevention and health promotion programs in New Orleans and the school-level Excellence in Public Health Award given by the United States Public Health Service.
- Carlo Basilio (MD/MPH 2019 Graduate) received the MD/MPH Student Award for Excellence for excellence in leadership, innovation, scholarship, and likelihood to contribute to both clinical medicine and public health, as well as the MacDonald Environmental Health Sciences Outstanding Student Award.
- Maya Groos (MD/MPH 2019 Graduate) received the MD/MPH Student Award for Excellence for excellence in leadership, innovation, scholarship, and likelihood to contribute to both clinical medicine and public health.
- Tyler Jarrett (MD/MPH&TM 2019 Graduate) received the Sidney K. Simon Memorial Prize for excellence in Tropical Medicine, the Richard Freeman Prize in Medicine and a Tulane 34 award.
- Eleanor Polikowsky (MD/MPH 2019 Graduate) received the American Medical Women's Association Glasgow-Rubin Achievement Certificate and the Oscar Creech Award for excellence in Surgery.

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

Congratulations to Linda Nix! Linda is a 2019 MD/MPH graduate with a concentration in Global Community Health and Behavioral Sciences. She has exhibited extraordinary leadership in and commitment to improving the health of individuals and communities through her roles as a previous MD/MPH Program Vice President and an AACAP Life Members Mentorship Grant recipient. During her years at Tulane in the MD/MPH Program, Linda has been instrumental in the creation and expansion of the Homeless Hospital Liaison Program in collaboration with the Tulane Street Medicine Program with a focus on improving medical care outreach to the homeless population of New Orleans. Additionally, Linda has worked locally with Acacia-NOLA to lead efforts administering HIV and hepatitis C virus tests to homeless shelters and substance abuse treatment centers. Linda plans to continue working to help underserved communities as she moves on to her Psychiatry residency at Rush University Medical Center in Chicago.

2019 MD/MPH RESEARCH SCHOLARSHIPS AND FELLOWSHIPS

- Faisal Kirdar (MD/MPH Class of 2022) received a Morgadanes Research Scholarship for his project entitled,
 "Assessment of subclinical atherosclerosis and cognitive function in middle age."
- Leah Steinmetz (MD/MPH Class of 2022) received a Hoerner Research Scholarship for her project entitled, "Cervical cancer pre- and post-Hurricane Katrina."
- Alexander Jafari (MD/MPH Class of 2022) received a Lively Research Scholarship for his project entitled, "Development of outer membrane vesicles (OMVs) as a novel adjuvant for a vaccine against B. pertussis."
- Austin Jones (MD/PhD Class of 2021) received an ASTMH Benjamin H. Kean Travel Fellowship in Tropical Medicine for his project entitled, "Attacks on Ebola treatment facilities and Incidence of Ebola in North Kivu."

2019-2020 CCTS SCHOLARS

Congratulations to our 2019-2020 Tulane CCTS TL1 Scholars, Riley Santiago and Ashkan Shahbandi! Tulane partners with the University of Alabama at Birmingham in the Clinical and Translational Science (CCTS) TL1 training program, a NIH-funded fellowship program that prepares investigators to pursue careers in health services and clinical research focused on addressing disparities and/or diseases disproportionally represented in the Deep South.

2019 EICHOLD AWARD Benjamin Norton – MD/MPH Class of 2020

Benjamin Norton was awarded the Eichold MD/MPH Scholarship from the Community Foundation of South Alabama for excellence in the MD/MPH Combined-Degree Program. During his past few years at Tulane, Ben founded the One Health Club with the mission to introduce medical students, public health students, and the New Orleans community to thinking about the world as an interconnected system and the importance of multi-disciplinary approaches. This club is a collaboration between the Tulane Schools of Public Health and Medicine, and events have included presentations from leaders in medicine, veterinary medicine, public health, environmental science and community justice.

2019 Tulane 34 Award Recipients

The Tulane 34 Award is among the most coveted university-wide honors. The award recognizes 34 graduating students from across the university who have distinguished themselves throughout their collegiate lives by demonstrating exemplary leadership, service and academic excellence. Congratulations to Tyler Jarrett (MD/MPH&TM 2019 Graduate) and Austin Jones (MPH 2019 Graduate and MD/PhD Class of 2021) for this honor!

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHTS

David Gaus, MD, MPHTM, work in Ecuador featured in New Book

Dr. David Gaus (MD/MPHTM Class of 1992 Graduate) was recently featured in a new book about his work in Ecuador. After completing his medical and public health training, Dr. Gaus went on to co-found and manage Andean Health & Development (AHD) in Ecuador. AHD has built two top-of-the-line hospitals in Pedro Vicente Maldonado and Santo Domingo, Ecuador. The hospitals, staffed only by Ecuadorians, train local doctors through a Family Medicine residency program and are financially self-sustaining. His work with AHD is recognized as a model for the rest of Latin America, and AHD has grown into a major player in global health, frequently partnering with the World Health Organization and other international agencies. Author Tony Hiss has recently published "Long Road from Quito" about how Dr. Gaus' vision and determination led to these accomplishments.

Charity Dean, MD, MPH, appointed to Statewide Public Health Post

Dr. Charity Dean (MD/MPH Class of 2005 Graduate), one of Santa Barbara County's most well-known and prominent physicians, was appointed Assistant Director at the California Department of Public Health in late 2018. Dr. Dean has served as public health officer at the Santa Barbara County Public Health Department since 2014, and served as Deputy Public Health Officer from 2011 to 2014. She has worked vigorously on the front lines of public health, striving to keep the community safe from influenza, valley fever, West Nile, the Zika virus and other serious illnesses.

Michael Burgdorf, MD, MPH, received 2018 Aesthetic and Cosmetic Medicine Awards

Dr. Michael Burgdorf (MD/MPH Class of 2001 Graduate) is the founder and president of Music City Plastic Surgery, PLLC, one of the most prestigious plastic surgery offices in the nation, where he carefully guides patients to achieve the best version of themselves possible. An award-winning, board-certified plastic surgeon, Dr. Burgdorf specializes in performing conservative cosmetic procedures to help women regain confidence by reversing the physical impact of childbirth. Dr. Burgdorf won multiple honors at the 2018 Aesthetic and Cosmetic Medicine Awards, including Top Plastic Surgeon Middle America and Top 100 Aesthetic Doctors.

Wes Ely, MD, MPH, hosts Medicine Grand Rounds

Dr. Wes Ely (MD/MPH Class of 1989 Graduate) presented a Grand Rounds lecture entitled. "A New Frontier in Critical Care: Saving the Injured Brain", at Tulane SOM this past March. The Grand Rounds lecture was co-sponsored by the Tulane SOM Department of Medicine and the Southeast Louisiana Veterans Health Care System. Dr. Ely is a professor in Pulmonary & Critical Care Medicine at Vanderbilt University Medical Center and co-director of the Center for Critical Illness, Brain dysfunction, and Survivorship (CIBS Center). Dr. Ely's research has focused on improving the care and outcomes of critically ill patients with ICU-acquired brain disease. His team developed the primary tool (CAM-ICU) which is used to measure delirium in ICU-based trials and clinically at the bedside in ICUs worldwide. Dr. Ely has been continuously federally funded for over 15 years and has over 400 peer-reviewed publications. Dr. Ely is the principal investigator on a new $17 million NIA sponsored R01 to establish the first brain repository from former ICU patients to define the dementia acquired by these patients during and after critical care with hopes to reduce human suffering and magnify human dignity.

Lydia Bazzano, MD, PhD, selected to serve on federal Dietary Guidelines Advisory Committee

The US Departments of Agriculture and Health and Human Services selected Tulane University clinical researcher and epidemiologist Dr. Lydia Bazzano (MD/MPH Class of 2002 Graduate and current MD/MPH Epidemiology Program Faculty Advisor) as one of 20 nationally recognized nutrition experts to serve on the 2020 Dietary Guidelines Advisory Committee. The independent committee will help federal officials draft the next update to the Dietary Guidelines for Americans, which serve as the cornerstone of federal nutrition programs and policies. The next edition of the guidelines will take a life-stage approach for dietary recommendations and for the first time, will include recommendations for pregnant women and children from birth to 24 months. The committee will review scientific evidence on specific nutrition and health related topics and scientific questions that, for the first time, reflect both public comments and federal agency input.
