PLAGIARISM CAN BE:

- Intentional - word-for-word transcription of someone else's work without proper citation and passing it off as your own.
- Accidental - neglect to cite sources, incorrect citations or unintentional paraphrasing without attribution.
- Self - self plagiarism occurs when you reuse a paper (or its parts) you wrote for a different course without permission from all professors involved.

EXAMPLES OF PLAGIARISM:

- Using text verbatim from a website, journal, or book without properly citing the source.
- Failing to put a quote in quotation marks.
- Giving incorrect information about the source of a quote.
- Copying so many words or ideas from a source that it makes up the majority of the work (even if you give credit).
- Paraphrasing by changing only a word or two in a sentence, changing the sentence structure while using the original words, or changing key words to a synonym (even if you give credit).
- Failing to cite the source of images obtained from journal articles, books, websites, etc.
